Emmanuel College is academic excellence in the liberal arts and sciences.

It is commitment to mission and service to others.
It is discovery through research, internships and global study.
It is community spirit on campus and beyond.
It is engagement with the vibrant and diverse city of Boston.

It is a place to bring your all. A place to call your own. A place where you can make a difference and discover your passion.

It is personal.
It is powerful.
It is your next step.

The Emmanuel Learning Experience

A HANDS-ON APPROACH

Here, every class is taught by a professor, not a teaching assistant, creating a deep, personal student-faculty relationship that begins on day one. With more than 50 areas of study to explore, our goal is to instill in you the knowledge, skills and habits of a mind developed through the study of the liberal arts and sciences.

We are a community with a lifelong passion for teaching and learning, rooted in the commitment to rigorous intellectual inquiry and the pursuit of truth. We believe in an education shaped by the Catholic intellectual tradition — one that develops your academic potential, your sense of self and your commitment to serve others.

Students who demonstrate superior academic ability and promise are invited to participate in our Honors Program — a four-year academic and co-curricular program to sharpen your critical thinking, enhance your communication skills and open doors to fascinating research opportunities in a wide range of disciplines.

Our goal is to position you for success at the college level, for a lifetime of learning and for participation in a diverse and global society. It is all part of our founding mission: to transform lives and make a better world with a strong values-based education.

Academic Support

A GUIDED PATH TO EXCELLENCE

Beginning at Orientation, your academic advisor will help you transition into college life. You’ll meet regularly to develop a four-year academic plan, select courses, review your academic progress and tap into additional resources.

In the Academic Resource Center (ARC), you’ll find the programs, peers and professionals to help hone your learning skills, improve your writing abilities and turn tutoring into a powerful resource.
Boston

LEARN ON LOCATION IN A HISTORIC, GLOBAL CITY

We live in a vibrant, international, culturally rich, sports-crazed and intellectually engaged city, and we take advantage of it at every turn.

During art class, you won’t just look at slides of Claude Monet’s Water Lilies, you’ll stand before the painting in the Museum of Fine Arts. In chemistry, you won’t just read about pH levels, runoff and ecosystems, you’ll analyze them in the collection of brooks, ponds and culverts known as Boston’s Muddy River.

As part of a service-learning course, you will take the knowledge learned in class and immediately apply it to effect positive change in the community. These elective courses — in art or education, science or sociology, history or business — partner with local organizations to provide you with significant experiences that extend your classroom into the community. Courses have included “Catholic Social Teaching,” “Spanish at Work in the Community” and “Management Research for Positive Change.”
The Sciences

A WORLD-CLASS SETTING FOR DISCOVERY

The sciences have been an integral part of an Emmanuel College education since its early years. Our neighbors are some of the most prestigious medical, academic and research institutions in the world. This location offers you unmatched opportunities in the highly competitive fields of science, technology and health care.

The Maureen Murphy Wilkens Science Center
Welcome to academics in action. The Wilkens Science Center is a 47,500-square-foot, world-class facility where a new generation of students like you can achieve scientific literacy and prepare for high-growth professions and graduate study. This is a commitment to your future that reflects our mission, with a state-of-the-art space that enhances interactive teaching and learning.

Beyond science excellence, this building also demonstrates a commitment to our shared future of green sustainability with its energy-efficient operating systems and design elements.

14:1 student-faculty ratio means small, engaging and interactive classes
Bonds: Science Living-Learning Community

This exciting science-specific, integrated learning environment for residential students is designed to intensify and expand your educational experience beyond the classroom.

You’ll live in the same residence hall with other students who are equally driven by their love of science. And you’ll learn together, supported by computers loaded with science software, organized tutoring and study sessions, special faculty presentations and conversations, peer mentoring and more.

Emmanuel + Merck

Emmanuel is the only college in the country with a private pharmaceutical research facility right on campus. Merck Research Laboratories — Boston opened its 12-story, 300,000 square-foot facility at Emmanuel in 2004. The Merck partnership offers the Emmanuel community unique academic and scholarship opportunities.
Research + Scholarship

SET YOURSELF APART

At Emmanuel, professors are always on the look out for outstanding papers that can be delivered at national conferences in areas such as science, psychology or political science, as well as poems, stories and essays that can be published in anthologies and literary journals.

Here, undergraduates work shoulder-to-shoulder with faculty on major research projects and regularly see their work in print. At most colleges, this experience is only for graduate students, who strive to be noticed in the sea of students eager for the privilege of stepping into world-class research labs. Working closely with faculty, even in the first year, is part of the fabric of the Emmanuel experience.

Faculty members have distinguished reputations and maintain connections all over the world, but they choose to teach at Emmanuel because they are driven to be part of your transformation. Just ask any of these students.

Internships + Career Development

EXPERIENCE. FOR REAL.

Intellectual rigor meets practical reality and theory meets practice in valuable internships across all disciplines. Your internship will be a pivotal component of your educational experience and an essential opportunity in your journey toward both a professional career and graduate school. Our Career Center will help guide you through the process and provide you with such resources as the HireSaints database, where you can access more than 1,200 internship listings.

Here in Boston, Emmanuel College has partnerships across a broad spectrum of areas, from marketing to financial services, from politics to communications, from law enforcement to health care. Whether at a Fortune 500 or a non-profit, an internship will give you an on-the-spot view of how the world works. A world you are eager to join. A world you may change someday. A world that welcomes Emmanuel students like you.

90% of students participate in one or more internships
Brianna
Major: Global Studies
Internship: Office of Former Massachusetts Senator John Kerry, Immigration Intern
“In this role, I served as a liaison to constituents, aiding in the immigration and naturalization process. I had the opportunity to meet with Homeland Security and gain valuable knowledge about immigration law and the day-to-day plights of constituents and their families. After graduation, I intend to explore job opportunities abroad working in embassies, which I feel will complement my time spent in the senator’s office.”

Doug
Major: English Communications
Internship: Hill Holliday, Media Buying Intern
“I was able to shadow other departments and discover more about different aspects of the advertising industry — a staple of the Hill Holliday internship program. One day, I volunteered to assist with a photo shoot and it just so happened that the woman working next to me was the head of the accounts management department. She told me that she loved my attitude and that she wanted to have me as part of her team right after graduation, which was amazing to hear.”

Frank
Major: Psychology; Minor: Organizational Leadership
Internships: WGBH & Biogen Idec
“In both instances, my internships took place in the human resources departments. They offered me a glimpse of the behind-the-scenes work concerning personnel and employee relations. In addition, I conducted research on campus that further drove me to a career path focused on personal interaction. Through on-campus research and internships, Emmanuel provided me the experiences and skills to excel.”

Christine
Major: Biology
Internships: Harvard University and Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center
“My professors at Emmanuel really helped me focus my career path, from introducing me to genetic counseling, a field of science with which I was previously unfamiliar, to helping me define and set my career goals. Emmanuel’s reputation in the sciences and its partnerships with the institutions in the Longwood Medical and Academic Area make studying here a unique, challenging and rewarding experience. I’ve been offered many opportunities that aren’t readily available to undergraduates, even at larger schools.”

Colleges of the Fenway

THE MULTIPLIER EFFECT

Six colleges are better than one. Especially when your five neighbors have the special areas of study of the Massachusetts College of Art and Design, MCPHS University, Simmons College, Wentworth Institute of Technology and Wheelock College. All of the Colleges of the Fenway are within walking distance.

Together, we share library privileges, dining and recreational facilities; cross-register for each other’s courses; play in our joint orchestra; compete in intramural sports and more. This is city living at its best, hanging out with the neighbors.
Study Abroad

GO FAR

International study lets you pursue a language, a major, a dream. We offer access to more than 500 study abroad programs all over the world, from Barcelona to Beijing, from a week at spring break to a summer, a semester or a year. Emmanuel faculty lead travel courses to Greece, India, Australia and more.

These experiences will expand your mind, invigorate your spirit and offer advantages that will stay with you for life. Tomorrow, these may open the door to a job, and then help you do that job better with the perspective of a global context.

Our Office of International Programs, partnering with the Colleges of the Fenway’s Global Education Opportunities Center, is where you start. There, you can find the country and program that are right for you. Emmanuel students have studied management in China, leadership in England, art in Italy, political and economic development in South America and much more. What will you do?

A Family Affair: The Bakers and Boston

For the Baker family from Holden, Mass., Boston is like a second home. Kathy and Fred Baker, parents of Chris ’14 and Matt ’17, met as undergraduate students in Boston and have fond memories of their urban student experience. They drive into the city so often and effortlessly to the point Kathy says the car “just drives itself.” If they could have a vacation home anywhere, she admits it would be here, in town.

It took one visit to Emmanuel’s campus to realize it was the right place for their sons. Chris transferred to the College during his sophomore year and was immediately hooked by the welcoming environment. He got involved on campus from the very start, notably as a member of the track & field team, which eased the adjustment. For Matt, it was Boston or bust, and Emmanuel offered the type of personal interactions he sought from his own college experience. Together, Chris and Matt are following in their parents’ footsteps and making the city of Boston (and Emmanuel), their own.

"The second we arrived on campus for a visit, we felt how energetic and vibrant a place this is. The fact that Chris transitioned so well here was a plus for Matt, who was able to gain a sense of the great community that Emmanuel is. It’s a thrill to have them here together. Emmanuel has so much to offer both of them.”

A Catholic college is a place where the dialogue between faith and reason is taken seriously. Here, students engage in discussions of the ethical issues of our time.

SISTER JANET EISNER, SND, PRESIDENT

In 1919, the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, who believe that education is the greatest work on earth, opened Emmanuel College to provide an education to those who otherwise might not have the opportunity to acquire one. Their mission was clear: making known God’s goodness...educating for life.

The rigorous intellect, the vibrant faith and the joyful spirit of this powerful mission are embodied in Sister Janet Eisner, SND, who first came to Emmanuel as a student. She returned as a professor, served as Chair of the English Department and Director of Admissions, and now serves as President.

Sister Janet loves the students of Emmanuel College. But make no mistake, her expectations are high. This is an education that will make a difference in your life. In return, it is expected that you will make a difference in the lives of others.

Mission + Ministry

In an active campus community committed to social justice, you make a difference, when and where you want. We believe a personal and loving God calls each of us to engage in the contemporary world around us. This is a community of possibilities, a force for action.

Campus Ministry

Inspired by the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur, our community lives and celebrates a belief in the goodness of God and the goodness of God’s people, no matter what faith they follow. This is the soul of our mission. Through focused ministries, educational programs, volunteer service, prayer and Liturgies, Campus Ministry provides opportunities for you to deepen your spirituality, act justly and live faithfully.

The Center for Mission + Spirituality

This is a cause that lives within the hearts of the entire Emmanuel community. The Center seeks to translate into action the strong mission, beliefs and legacy of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur.

Through the 1804 Society, a leadership organization named in honor of the founding year of the Sisters of Notre Dame, students promote service to others and serve as ambassadors of Emmanuel by sharing the mission both on campus and in the community.

Service: Belief in Action

We learn and teach, research and explore, work and play in the context of a greater society — a society of people who need what we can give. We challenge ourselves to act, to lead and to give generously to others. We work for justice and keep the connection between faith and action alive in many ways. In fact, more than 80% of our students participate in service.

Go Saints! At Emmanuel, sports can be for everyone. Even as we recruit top Division III student-athletes, we welcome and develop everybody interested in recreation both on and off the playing field. We shape individual growth with strong athletic competition and high academic standards.

Here, you will find leadership opportunities and support. The coaches and staff of the Athletics Department believe in the value of physical activity for the mental, physical, emotional and spiritual health of all.

Facilities for Peak Performance
Our facilities are top tier. The Jean Yawkey Center houses our gymnasium, home to our basketball and volleyball programs, and our fully equipped fitness center with views of the quad. Roberto Clemente Field features synthetic turf and lighting for lacrosse, soccer and softball. Our track & field team practices indoors at the Reggie Lewis Track & Athletic Center and outdoors on the rubberized track encircling Clemente Field.

Leadership + Engagement
GET INVOLVED. ENHANCE YOUR RÉSUMÉ.

This is a place where you can be involved and become a leader on campus and in the community from day one. Students at Emmanuel are truly engaged in the life of the College and the city, through leadership roles in the Student Government Association, clubs and organizations, major fundraising drives, athletics and more. As Orientation Leaders, Resident Assistants, Peer Tutors and Admissions Ambassadors, current students serve as mentors to their fellow classmates.

From concerts to open mic nights, comedy shows to intramural sports, there is always something happening on campus. Catch the spirit at Midnight Madness, where we kick off the basketball season. Organize our annual Mr. Emmanuel contest. Enjoy the food, performances and music of International Hospitality Night. Raise money for Boston Children’s Hospital during Dance Marathon.
Clubs + Organizations

It is our diversity of interests that brings us together as a vibrant, dynamic community. Emmanuel students get involved in the 90+ clubs, organizations, and activities available to them on campus, and every year we start something new. Bring your ideas! New clubs started just last year include photography, yoga, field hockey and swim.

Joe ’13
B.A. History and Secondary Education
2013-2014 Fulbright English Teaching Assistant, Latvia

Stories such as Joe’s exemplify the philosophy of student engagement at Emmanuel — with a little initiative and an open mind, ideas can become reality.

In 2010, Joe and his classmates were asked to devise a plan that would take Emmanuel’s student-run radio station, EC Radio, to a higher level. Joe’s plan was ultimately chosen and he found himself in the role of EC Radio president. Under his leadership, the station quickly rose in popularity, as Joe featured unknown bands and created a live music café in the basement of St. Joseph Hall. He also was able to blend his love for history and politics with a new passion for radio by showing up in New Hampshire during the winter presidential primary and broadcasting from both the Democratic and Republican National Conventions in the summer of 2012.
José, Class of 2012
Fund Accounting Analyst at Brown Brothers Harriman
“I had envisioned myself one day working in one of the four major accounting firms in the U.S. Before I thought, ‘Wow, the Big Four, maybe someday I’ll get there.’ When I earned a spot in KPMG’s highly competitive internship program it showed the quality of an Emmanuel education. Students should feel confident that Emmanuel will provide them with the tools to succeed.”

Michael, Class of 2007
Pediatric Resident Physician, Baystate Medical Center
“Every part of my Emmanuel experience helped me become a physician. My research with the chemistry department allowed me to present at scientific meetings all over the country, and the Office of Student Activities and Multicultural Programs taught me how to be a leader in a city with a diverse patient population.”

Simela, Class of 2004
Assistant Vice President, Investment Risk Analyst, Wellington Management
“I started in a temporary position at Wellington in 2005 and was made an Assistant Vice President a few years ago. Students should choose a stable company in an industry that interests them and that offers continuous opportunities to learn and take on new challenges.”

Lauren, Class of 2012
Ph.D. Student, Chemistry, Boston College

“Emmanuel provided me with the foundation I needed to pursue my Ph.D. in chemistry. I was given access to introductory and upper-level science courses, labs that taught me relevant skills, a competitive internship at a biotech company, and most importantly, an excellent support and mentor system to help guide me.”

James, Class of 2011
Ph.D. Student, Political Science, Northeastern University

“My Emmanuel experience provided me with the insight and opportunity to further my academic and professional career. The ability to connect with professors on an individual level gave me the confidence to apply to a Ph.D. program and the expertise in my field to thrive at the graduate level.”

Curtis, Class of 2011
J.D. Candidate, University of San Diego

“My time at Emmanuel has left me with many lasting memories. From my experience playing on a nationally ranked volleyball team to internships and studying abroad in Barcelona, Spain, the Emmanuel community granted me the support to immerse myself in experiential learning outside of the classroom.”

Investing in an Emmanuel Education

Liberal arts and sciences graduates earn nearly double what high school graduates earn over the course of their working lives. An Emmanuel College education will give you access to a greater job market and open doors to new fields. We are committed to making these dramatic advantages and opportunities affordable for you and your family.

This important investment may require a combination of resources, including support from your parents, state and federal governments, the private sector and the College. How you pay for your college education is as individual a decision as choosing the right college for you.

We'll support and guide you and your family as you navigate the many resources available to pay for this powerful education, including payment plans, parent and student loans, federal and state grants, private scholarships and both merit-based and need-based scholarships from Emmanuel College.

For more information, visit www.emmanuel.edu/admissions or call the Office of Admissions at 617.735.9715 or Student Financial Services at 617.735.9938.
